The Certified Arborist Examination is available to qualified arbor culture professionals who want to become certified arborists. The Certified Arborist Examination, administered by the International Arboriculture Society (ISA), is accredited by the American Institute of National Standards. Professionals who earn these credentials demonstrate professional knowledge of tree biology, safety practices, diagnostics and other topics related to arboriculture. There are many advantages associated with obtaining certified arborist credentials. Certified arborists often have a competitive advantage in the labor market because employers and organizations associate this certification with experience and expertise. Becoming a certified arborist can also mean an increase in income, depending on the employer. In general, the powers of ISA Arborist can contribute to the professional development of modern arborists. Certified Arborist Guide to The Studycertified Arborist FlashcardsEligibility Requirements In order to apply to become a certified arborist, applicants must meet at least one of the following requirements. Experience: Applicants must have at least three years of full-time experience in arboriculture. Some of the many suitable responsibilities include cables and fastenings, fertilization, pruning, and diagnosis and treatment of tree problems. Examples of employers are municipalities, landscape companies, tree care companies and kindergartens. Applicants can submit controlled volunteer work if they can provide documentation that provides hours and responsibilities. To test work experience, applicants must submit a letter (s) links from previous or current employers. If the applicant is self-employed, he must submit three reference letters. Education: You can meet the certification requirements by completing a university accredited program with additional practical experience in arboriculture or completing an evaluation-based certificate program. Visit the exam website for more information about education. The exam consists of 200 questions with several answers, each of which consists of four options and one correct answer. The inspection is three and a half hours. The exam was developed by a wide range of industry experts who collectively represent all aspects of arboriculture. New exams are regularly created, which are constantly analyzed, and new questions are often added. The questions come from an analysis of the work of a survey conducted by arborists from all over the world. Certification exams are offered at both ISA chapter meetings and exam dates in both ARBORIST NEWS (ISA) and the ISA website. Computer exams can be taken at Pearson Vue testing centers, which are available throughout the country. Applications and full payment must be received by the ISA office at least 12 business days before the scheduled exam for those who take the head-sponsored exam. The exam fee depends on whether the test participant is a member of the ISA, as well as its individual chapter (members of both receive a discount; members of only one receive a partial discount). Once the application has been accepted and all relevant fees are paid, confirmation is mailed stating that the test must be accepted within 90 days. Transfer is allowed for a $50 fee. There is no refund of fees under any circumstances. A score of 76% or higher is considered passable and will result in the appointment of an ISA Certified Arborist. Exams are scored electronically, and post-exam reports are mailed about four to six weeks after the exam. It's the only way exam, and points cannot be obtained by phone or fax or email. The testers can request a $35 exam re-grade. For those who have not reached the passing point, the score, the exam can be retaken once free for one year after the initial exam. Each time you pass a computer exam, you will be charged an administrative fee of $125. The ISA Certified Arborist is valid for three years. Those who wish to retain their appointment must accumulate 30 or more CEUs and pay a re-certification fee. The ISA takes any misconduct in relation to the application or examination of any misconduct on its website and lists on its website a wide range of possible inappropriate actions, including non-essential information about the claim, deception, use of copyrighted or legally protected material, physical breaches of the examination process or other possible actions.
